Growing Hope for hungry families during a pandemic...

the field of soybeans

What does our collective lifesaving work of fundraising for Canadian Foodgrains Bank look like during a pandemic? The answer is that Canadian farmers like the Goudy family and Canadian churches continue to support efforts to end hunger no matter how isolated, anxious and fearful they are themselves in these uncertain times.

Food is essential to life. We are concerned that the pandemic is causing even more people to face hunger here and abroad. We are all in this together and we need to care for one another. Now more than ever Canadians need to support vulnerable people both in Canada and around the world where COVID-19 is a major threat to food security.

Food assistance is needed in many world areas to help support families who are facing both chronic hunger and COVID-19

THANK YOU FOR HELPING US END HUNGER!

Though we are allowed to meet outdoors in groups of 100 or less if we practice social distancing, we felt it would be very challenging to carry out our usual Markdale Harvest Celebration activities while keeping everyone physically and socially distanced and safe during this pandemic.

However, because of the dire food needs globally we are giving you the opportunity to give what you would normally give during the Harvest Celebration weekend.

Enclosed is an envelope in which to enclose your gift and mail it to Church of the Nazarene Canada and designate Grow Hope Markdale.

If you should choose rather to give online, you can do so at www.ncmcanada.ca

NCM Canada COVID-19 Response

NCM Canada is responding to food needs in Malawi, the Philippines, and in creative access areas of Africa.

Pictured are recipients of cash for food in Malawi in April. The cash will enable them to buy food while at the same time helping to support local markets.

You are making a difference!
